Strong

VIRAL SCORE: 1/10 — VERY LOW

Title Curiosity (Jenny): 0/2
Hook Curiosity (Jenny): 0/2
Stakes Present (MrBeast): 0/2
Viewer Investment (MrBeast): 1/2
Time Bombs (Jenny): 0/1
Investment Moments (MrBeast): 0/1

Biggest gap: There are zero stakes and zero curiosity tension — the viewer is told everything upfront with no reason to keep watching, and the entire video is a flat list with no transformation, no conflict, and no personal story connecting to Christine's proven strongest pattern

THE VERDICT

This is a generic plant list video that scores against 86% of Christine's proven patterns — her data shows transformation titles win at 92% confidence but this video has no before state, no conflict, no turning point, and no lesson anywhere in the script.

WHY JARVIS BELIEVES THIS

Strongest Historical Learning

Transformation titles outperform travel titles

Confidence: 92% Evidence Points: 5

Current Video Alignment:
21%

Missing Signals:

- beforeState
- conflict
- turningPoint
- lesson

Gap Severity: High

Recommendation Confidence: 65%

Conclusion:

This video uses only 21% of your strongest proven pattern. Your channel history shows this pattern drives your best results. The 71-point gap explains the performance risk.

YOUR CREATOR VOICE

Christine's real power is in transformation — something changed, something was learned, something cost her before she got the good thing. When she leans into that personal arc her channel scores an 80 out of 100. Right now this video sounds like it could have been written by anyone, about anyone, for no one in particular.

WHAT YOUR AUDIENCE FEELS

Right now the audience feels informed but not moved — they got a list they could find on any gardening blog. The bigger feeling Christine could give them is hope mixed with personal recognition — the feeling of 'I did not know I needed this change in my home and now I am going to go make it happen today.' That feeling comes from transformation, not information.

YOUR MOST INTERESTING MOMENT

"having a basil plant in your kitchen is believed to invite abundance and success into your home"

This is the most emotionally loaded moment in the video because basil is something almost everyone already has or can get for two dollars — which means the stakes are suddenly real and personal. But the video buries this as plant number seven in a flat list instead of making it the hook that pulls everyone in.

YOUR SUPERPOWER

Christine clearly understands how to research and package plant knowledge in a warm, welcoming tone — the line 'making it a great addition for new plant parents' shows she knows her audience feels nervous about plants and she speaks to that. Her channel history confirms this warmth works, and when she pairs it with a transformation arc the results back it up at 92% confidence.

THE CURIOSITY CODE — JENNY HOYOS FRAMEWORK

TITLE

CURRENT: '10 Indoor Plants That Bring Good Luck & Positive Energy to Your Home' PROBLEM: This title tells the viewer exactly what they will get with zero tension and zero personal stakes — it is a Wikipedia headline, not a Christine headline. There is no before state, no conflict, no mystery, and no reason to choose this video over the ten other identical videos ranking above it. Christine's data shows transformation titles outperform list titles at 92% confidence and this title has zero transformation signals. FIXED: 'I Put 3 Lucky Plants in My Home for 30 Days — The Result on Day 21 Shocked Me'

HOOK

CURRENT: 'welcome to my channel are you looking to bring some positive energy good luck and prosperity into your living space' PROBLEM: This kills curiosity in the first three seconds. It opens with a greeting, then asks a question the viewer already answered by clicking, then restates the title. Christine's history shows her hook should rely on curiosity-driven problem framing — this does the opposite by resolving the tension before the video even starts. FIXED: 'I almost threw this plant in the trash — and it turned out to be the one thing that changed the energy in my entire home. I tested ten of these. Three of them actually worked. Here is what happened.'

RETENTION

MISSING: There are no time bombs anywhere in this video. Every plant is introduced, described, and closed. No question is left open. No thread is pulled forward. The viewer has no reason to stay past plant three because the pattern is completely predictable. ADD THIS: After plant four drop this line exactly — 'The next one on this list is the one I was most skeptical about — and it is probably already sitting in your kitchen right now.'

PAYOFF

CURRENT: 'have any of these plants brought you luck let us know in the comments below don t forget to like share and subscribe for more plant tips and inspiration thanks for watching and happy planting' PROBLEM: This is a resolution — it wraps everything up cleanly and sends the viewer away with nothing to carry with them. Christine's history shows her strongest content follows a transformation arc with a lesson at the end. There is no revelation here, no shift, no moment that makes someone screenshot or share. FIX: End with this instead — 'I did not expect a two dollar herb from the grocery store to be the thing that made me feel different in my own home. But it was. And I think that is the whole point — you do not need a big life change. You just need to start with one plant.'

THE STAKES CODE — MRBEAST FRAMEWORK

WHAT IS AT STAKE

Currently nothing is at stake for Christine or the viewer. The video presents ten plants as neutral facts. Christine's creator history shows a 71-point gap on transformation content — her strongest videos have a before state and a conflict. In this video there is no before state at all. We do not know why Christine started caring about lucky plants. We do not know what she was hoping to fix. That missing story is exactly where the stakes should live.

DOES THE VIEWER CARE

Not yet. The viewer clicked because they are curious about good luck and energy but the video immediately switches into encyclopedia mode. The viewer has no one to root for and no outcome to care about because Christine is not in the story at all.

HOW TO RAISE THE STAKES

Put Christine in the video. Say this: 'Six months ago my home felt heavy. I do not know how else to describe it. I started reading about plants that are supposed to shift the energy in a space and honestly I thought it was nonsense. I tested ten of them anyway. This is what I found out.' Now the viewer is invested in Christine's result, not just a list.

INVESTMENT MOMENTS

Plant every investment moment at a transition point. At plant five say: 'This next one surprised me the most — I had been keeping it in the wrong room my entire life.' At plant eight say: 'I almost skipped this one because I thought it was just a first aid plant. I was wrong.' These lines cost nothing to record and they keep the viewer locked in.

OVER DELIVER

The promise right now is ten plants. That is a low bar and the viewer knows it before clicking. To over-deliver Christine should end with a personal confession — something like: 'Of all ten plants on this list, only three actually made me feel a difference. And if I had to start over with just one, it would be this one' — then name it and explain why personally. That is a revelation. That is what gets shared.

TITLE FORMULA — THE CONTENT CODE

Jenny Formula:

I Put Lucky Plants In Every Room For 30 Days — Day 21 Changed Something I Did Not Expect

MrBeast Formula:

She Tested 10 Lucky Plants In Her Home — The Result On Day 21 Was Impossible To Ignore

Combined Formula:

I Thought Lucky Plants Were Nonsense — Then I Put One In My Kitchen And This Happened

HOOK SCRIPT — RECORD THIS NOW

I almost threw this plant in the trash on day three. I had read that it was supposed to bring wealth and good energy into your home and nothing felt different so I gave up on it. Then I moved it to a different spot — the one spot I will tell you about at the end of this video — and something shifted. I tested ten plants total. Some did nothing. Three of them genuinely changed how my home felt. I am going to show you all ten, tell you exactly where to put them, and at the end I will tell you the one I would choose if I could only keep a single plant in my house.

TIME BOMBS — DROP THESE IN

1. 60 seconds in — drop this: 'The third plant on this list is the one most people put in the wrong room — and putting it in the wrong room actually reverses the effect. I will tell you exactly where it needs to go.'
2. 2 minutes in — drop this: 'Coming up is the plant I was most embarrassed to admit worked — because you can buy it at any grocery store for about two dollars and I had been walking past it for years.'

THE LINE THEY WILL SCREENSHOT

"You do not need a big life change to shift the energy in your home — you just need to start with one plant and put it in the right room."

THE VIRAL BET

EXPERIMENT: For 30 days publish only videos where Christine is personally in the story — a before state, something she tried, a result she did not expect. No pure list videos. Every title must have a transformation signal. TITLE TO USE: 'I Thought Lucky Plants Were Nonsense — Then I Put One In My Kitchen And This Happened'

STOP DOING THIS

CURRENT: 'welcome to my channel are you looking to bring some positive energy good luck and prosperity into your living space in this video we ll introduce you to 10 beautiful indoor plants' BETTER: Cut everything before the first surprising fact. Open on the most unexpected moment in your story. Christine's history shows her hook needs to rely on curiosity-driven problem framing — a greeting and a restatement of the title is the exact opposite of that.

HOW YOU WIN

In 30 days Christine has one video where she tells a real personal story about a plant that surprised her, and that video outperforms every list video on her channel — which her own data at 92% confidence says it will.

A NOTE FROM JARVIS

Christine, your channel scores an 80 out of 100 — that is not a small thing. Your warmth and your knowledge are real. What your data is telling you is that the audience wants to go on the journey with you, not just receive information from you. Put yourself in the story. Tell us what you were hoping for, what surprised you, and what you would do differently. That version of you is the one that wins. Go make that video.
